1. REQUEST FOR '13-PAGE MEMORANDUM' from IU General Counsel

On May 4, 2016, Indiana University's current Senior Associate General Counsel Kiply Drew gave Indiana University Police Department ("IUPD") Officer Mat Lewis a "13 page memorandum" that described "multiple allegations that Professor Guoping Wang engaged in unwanted advances against students and staff," according to a probable cause affidavit. According to the affidavit, signed and dated by an IUPD officer, the memorandum was brought to the attention of IUPD on May 4 because one of the complainants requested police involvement.

I would like to request a copy of the 13-page report in question, in its original form* and as provided to IUPD Officer Mat Drew on May 4.

*I understand that the parts of the memorandum regarding students are protected via the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA"). Therefore, I ask that General Counsel redact all student names and student-identifying information from the 13-page report, in addition to any other information that would be protected by FERPA.

I trust that, if General Counsel cannot meet this records request via Indiana Access to Public Records Act, IC § 5-14-3., General Counsel will provide me with a detailed explanation as to what inside the report is protected from public view (examples of all that is protected, and whether the protections fall under FERPA, or another legal statute).

2. REQUEST FOR 'MOU' or any written agreement between IU and IUPD

On May 4, 2016, the Indiana University General Counsel provided Indiana University Police Department ("IUPD") Officer Mat Lewis with a 13-page memorandum that described "multiple allegations that Professor Guoping Wang engaged in unwanted advances against students and staff," according to an IUPD probable cause affidavit. According to the affidavit, the memorandum was brought to the attention of IUPD on May 4 because one of the complainants "requested police involvement." On May 6, IUPD Officer Nathan Koontz and Sgt. Rebecca Schmuhl joined Officer Lewis' IUPD investigation by interviewing the complainant, according to the affidavit.

In cases of alleged crimes against students, universities often create a "Memorandum-of-Understanding" ("MOU") or another type of written agreement with police agencies; these agreements could dictate who will investigate alleged crimes against students, a timeline for the investigation, etc. For example: in the case of the Guoping Wang investigation, such a document created by IU could have laid out an assignment for "Officer Koontz and Sgt. Schmuhl" to "interview the complainant on May 6."

I would like to request, in its(their) original* paper and/or digital form, copies of ANY and all "MOU"(s) and/or written agreement(s) that may have existed or may currently exist between the University and the IUPD regarding the investigation of allegations against former IU senior lecturer Guoping Wang. I place the following time stipulation on this request: copies of MOU(s) and/or written agreement(s) constructed between March 28, 2016 and July 15, 2016.

*I understand that private student information is protected via the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA"). Therefore, I ask that General Counsel redact from these MOU(s) and/or written agreement(s) all student names and student-identifying information, in addition to any other sensitive information that would be protected by FERPA.

I trust that, whether copies of such agreements exist digitally (as word documents shared via email attachments, for example) or on paper, they will qualify as public record.

I trust that, if MOU(s) or written agreement(s) exist between IU and IUPD regarding Guoping Wang, and General Counsel cannot meet this records request via Indiana Access to Public Records Act, IC § 5-14-3., General Counsel will provide me with a detailed explanation as to what content within the MOU(s) and/or written agreement(s) is protected from public view, and an explanation as to which legal statute, be it FERPA or another statute, protects the documents.
